

PROMOTE TECHNOLOGICAL LITERACY

Love Engineering? Love to Write?

Apply to be IEEE-USA's Engineering Mass Media Fellow

The AAAS Science and Engineering Mass Media Fellows Program provides an opportunity for college and graduate students in engineering and computer science to work full-time over the summer as reporters, researchers and production assistants in mass media organizations nationwide—including radio and TV stations, newspapers and magazines.

In addition to receiving weekly stipends and travel expenses, IEEE-USA Engineering Mass Media Fellows will gain valuable work experience and sharpen their communication skills as they research, write and report today's headlines for public consumption.

Since 2000, IEEE-USA Mass Media Fellows have been assigned to such media outlets as the Los Angeles Times, the Chicago Tribune, Scientific American, Popular Science and WNBC-TV.

To download an application for the fellowship program, visit:

www.aaas.org/programs/education/MassMedia

For more information on past IEEE-USA sponsored fellows, visit:

www.ieeeusa.org/communications/massmedia.asp

or e-mail:

p.mccarter@ieee.org

Application Deadline: 15 January 2009

